

LEADERSHIP FORUM

Knowledge-Based Economies in a Multicultural World

SAVE THE DATE!

Monday, September 20, 2004
9am-5pm

Senate Hart Office Building, Room 216
Washington, DC

With a Special Luncheon in Room 902 from 11:30am – 1:30pm*

This daylong forum will continue the dialogue begun in June at the Anchorage Leadership Forum on the importance of fostering knowledge-based economies in the evolving global marketplace. Speakers and participants will further explore the notion being proven in development circles around the globe: that efforts aimed at strengthening indigenous cultures provide an economic edge in the global economy.

In the emerging knowledge-based global economy, the best partners are placing a premium on new ideas. Strong leadership in this new approach will be critical, and truly effective development must combine all of the best values of local traditional cultures, but also be driven by indigenous leaders who are confident enough to embrace and absorb the contemporary modern society and its values.
