

Photos of Existing Wainwright Boat Launch (in August 2004)

The Wainwright Lagoon Boat Ramp was built 20 years ago and has deteriorated to the extent that it no longer provides safe access for vehicles launching boats. Blocks have come loose exposing rusted steel cables and the underlying canvas, which can damage vehicles using the ramp. Many blocks at the end and sides of the ramp have come loose making the ramp dangerously narrow as the ramp extends into the water, as shown below:

View of Boat Ramp looking east

End of the ramp at low tide